THE NEWFOUNDLAND FISHERY QUESTION .-There seems to be no one in the Colonies bold enough or false enough to say a word in favor of the recent convention between England and France, by which the former has so inexplicably ceded away some of the vital rights and franchises of her colonial subjects in this part of the world. England, indeed, has rarely before encountered such unanimous and furious opposition from the boldest and most refractory of her Colonies as she now meets from the least enterprising and most leyal of them all. There is absolutely no discordant voice in the general outcry which the convention has elicited in Newfoundland and the neighboring provinces From the highest officer in the Government down to the humblest fisherman on the coasts there is one loud, unbroken, and indignant protest against it It is fiercely repudiated by the entire people.

And no wonder. The convention cedes to France for a nominal and shadowy equivalent which mere ly adds insult to injury, rights and privileges that are clearly essential not only to the thrift but to the very existence of the leading interest of the colo-Under existing treaties, the subjects of France enjoy a concurrent right of fishing upon certain specified portions of the coast of Newfoundland, together with the adjacent Islands of St. Pierre and It broke—is there aught that can link it again? enjoy a concurrent right of fishing upon certain Miquelon; but, with these exceptions, they are totally excluded from Newfoundland and the near Islands, as well as from the coast of Belle Isle and In an ideal world thou hast builded thy thron Islands, as well as from the coast of Belle Isle and Labrador. This is the present extent of their right, and the colonists have always deemed it great enough. By the treaty in question, however, the concurrent right of the French is made exclusive as to about one-half the Newfoundland coast hitherto. open to them, and they obtain, beside, a concurrent right upon the best fishing grounds of Labrador and Belle Isle, along with the right of curing fish on the atter island, and of appropriating all the islands on the coast. In addition to this, it is claimed that the peculiar phraseology of the treaty puts it in the power of the French to materially injure if not to destroy the valuable sealnet, salmon, and herring fisheries both in Newfoundland and on the south coast of Labrador-an opportunity which they will be very certain to improve to the utmost. Moreover, the treaty confers upon the French the privilege of "taking" bait throughout the south coast of Newfoundland, whenever a supply by "purchase" shall fail, which is obviously tantamount to granting the privilege absolutely, and must operate most severely against the interests of the colonists. In short, the concessions of the treaty are so numerous and extravagant as to involve the necessary and speedy ruin of the New Foundland fisheries as a field of British enterprise. "The cession," says the Bishop of St. Johns in a warm and pointed manifesto, "will in a great measure depopulate the southern shore and bays, the seat of a population of over 20,000 - a population which nearly doubles itself every fifteen years; and will send 2,000 able-bodied, hardy seamen, born and reared there, to swell the New Foundland colonies at Newburyport and Boston, and man the American navy." The Bishop, in a strain of eloquent severity, adds: "Never in the darkest days of England's weakness, even when Charles II was little better than a pensioner of the "Grand Monarch," was a dispatch penned, or a convention signed, so utterly disgraceful. If the Tricolor were floating from the Tower and a French Marshal installed in Buckingham Palace, it would be difficult to expect that such hard conditions would even then be exacted by France or conceded by England," "In France," he continues bitterly, "it is brains, not influence, that qualify a man for a public situation, and what an opinion must French statesmen entertain of the statesmen of England, when they proposed such terms to them, compromis ing the very existence of thousands of British subjects, and robbing them of their birthright." the Convention), the Colonists are graciously per- father-in-law is a member.

mitted to retain the exclusive use of their own shores from the Humber to Cape Ray, with the exception, forsooth, of the harbors of Port au Port, Little Harbor, Red Island, and Codroy Island, the only ones upon that coast into which a vessel of any size can enter! This is manifestly sheer mockery, and as such the Colonists very properly treat it "The act of the British Government," respectfully hints the report of the Legislative Council of Newfoundland, "in accepting a tract of coast-already their own-for the purpose of affording to their subjects the means of settlement and fishery, and in the same breath depriving those subjects of the only harbor by which either purpose could be made available, is one which-although characterized by the Secretary of State as a "concession"-is viewed very differently by those who will suffer from the injury." It is, in fact, so far from being an equivalent for the concessions of the treaty, a serious aggravation of them. The compensation is more humiliating if not more injurious than the loss of the rights for which it is offered. As regards the Colonists, it is considerably worse than none at all.

It is evident, however, that the Convention has been negotiated without any especial regard to the colonists. Its object on the part of the Home Government is plainly to conciliate Louis Napoleon, as the means of cementing an alliance which promises to redound somewhat more to the profit of England hereafter than it has done heretofore. It is simply a stroke of Statecraft, by which the purposes of the British Government are advanced or sought to be at the expense of its distant colonies. The Convention deserves to miscarry, and there is a strong probability that it will. It cannot possibly succeed fairly. According to its own provisions, it must be ratified by the Provincial Legislature of Newfoundland as well as by the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain, and (although the Queen engages to use her best endeavors to that effect) it will never be ratified by the former. Its character and the tem-sentations which the Newfoundlanders are sending over to her Majesty will have the effect to greatly modify if not to entirely cancel the obnoxious

The attempt of the colonists to draw this country into their quarrel promises to be abortive. The Convention, if enforced, would unquestionably operate to the injury of our fishermen, but, as at present informed, we are of the opinion that it does not infringe our technical rights.

Thousands of our readers have lamented the disappearance of the wild and exquisite genius of Laura Lorrimer from our columns, but lo! she reappears in all her beauty and brightness:

[For the Louisville Bulletin.]

THEY CALL THEE A POET. They call thee a poet, wild, wandering one, With hair like the midnight and eye like the sun; They speak of thy mystic, thy glorious dower; Whence cometh thy sceptre, and what is thy power? A desolate childhood has fostered wild dreams, And whirlwind's have swept o'er life's streams.

Thy pulses have leaped to the sound of a nan When love crowned thy soul with a garland of flame; But sorrow or love, howe'er mighty they be,

They call thee a poet-why quiver thy lips?

Dark rust-stains have soiled it, tears dimmed its bright hue-Through the woes of the real thou walkest alone In earth's proudest annals thou bearest a part. She has crowns for thy forehead but naught for thy heart. What boots it to murmur? the bay-wreath is bright, Could the myrtle enshroud thee with holier light? Shall thy heart weakly moan, like a dove for its mate! Go! dream but of fame! struggle not with thy fate, For faith's summer-heaven is clouded with fears, Leaving room in thy soul but for curses and sneers

They call thee a poet-thy footsteps ere long Will sound not on earth, oh wild monarch of sone Thy spirit's soft pinions will sweep the perfume From Elysium's valleys of odorous bloom, And the asphodel rest like love's kiss on the brow, Which, world-stained and throbbing, droops wea On thy blue-veined temple a finger seems pressed, Death's fearful endorsement, his phantom-like crest. Proud gleams thy dark eye 'neath the lashes which Like shadows of midnight, upon thy pale cheek, Where Azrael's rose-bud unfolds its red bloom, Making beautiful even the path to the tomb; There are smiles on thy lip, but a thorn in thy breast-Then go, in thy glory, wild dreamer, to rest.

They call thee a poet—right regally die, Death's beautiful angel in silence draws nigh. Had he not walked so softly perchance there might be In his message more terror than pleasure for the But he comes as a cloud on a bright summer day, Veils the soft golden sunlight, then passes away. In that shadow thou'rt walking, it soon will pass by-Fold thy mantle around thee, right regally die!

TUNNELING NEW YORK CITY.-Among the many projects for the relief of Broadway, that of tunneling the principal streets at their intersection with that thoroughfare, is just now receiving the attention of the commsn council. Mr. C. Perley appeared before the councilmen's street committee, which met last Friday, and presented the plan of a tunnel through Wall street and under Broadway, debouching into Rector street. The tunnel he proposes begins at the corner of Wall and Nassau streets, passes up Wall street to Broadway, making a descent of half an inch in every foot, passes along Broadway to Rector street, then down Rector street, ascending gradually until it reaches the level grade, about the distance of a block from Broadway. The depth of the tunnel will be 17 feet below the street, and it will extend in width from curb to curb. This plan may be applied to other streets as well as Wall st. The committee appeared to entertain the project with

For New Orleans .- Capt. Dunham's fine steamer, the Fanny Bullitt, will-leave for New Orleans this evening. The Fanny has been laid up about two weeks, and undergone a thorough renovation. She has excellenr accommodations, and under such officers as Capt. D. and Mr. Field, the clerk, passengers will be well provided for.

The Pete Whetstone, Capt. Greenlaw, also leaves for New Orleans to-day.

The engines used in the boat are to be second hand ones

The river at this point is falling rapidly, and has fell about two feet since Saturday morning. All the upper rivers are reported falling by the last arrival, but there is water enough in them yet for all boating purposes.

The Upper Mississippi.—This river remains closed above Lake Pepin, with no immediate prospect of a break-up. The steamer Mansfield returned from the foot of the lake this morning, and reports it covered with solid ice three feet in thickness, and the weather on the 16th, the day the boat left, very cold. The efficers of the Mansfield are of the opinion that, should the weather turn warm, boats might be able to reach St. Paul by the 1st of May. The Mansfield met in all about twenty boats bound for St. Paul, all of which will be detained from two to four weeks getting there, unless a change in the weather should getting there, unless a change in the weather should take place. The Mississippi is falling fast from Dubuque down.

There were thirteen arrivals at our wharf before 10 o'clock this morning, and as many more are expected before night. Receipts of produce have been extremely heavy to-day. [By the Louisville, Shippingsport, and Portland Line.]

GEN. JACKSON'S GOLD SNUFF-BOX .- Gen Jackson bequeathed a gold snuff-box to be bestowed upon the bravest soldier in the Mexican war from New York city. A few years ago a joint committee of the New York City Council addressed a letter to Andrew Jackson, jr., of the Hermitage, inquiring of him if the box was in his possession, and, if not, where and how it could be obtained, but he made no answer. A few weeks ago a similar com nittee of the present council addressed a similar letter to him, but at the last dates he had not answered. AN AMERICAN SHIP WRECKED AND THE CREW MASSACRED .- A Hong Kong letter of February 14 states that reports have reached the foreign anchorage off Ape's Hill, of the wreck of an American ship on the south end of Formosa in the fall of 1855, of the massacre of the crew by the natives, and of the burning of the hull. The vessel is supposed to be the long looked-for clipper Highflyer, from California. She had several hundred Chinese as passengers, who were returning home from California, and had with them a large amount of money. She was owned in New York, and applications have been made to the Government to dispatch a vessel of war to the island.

BRANCH'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY. - We understand that the first number of this immortal work is just completed, and is being privately circulated by the hand of the author himself. It is said to be written in Stephen's finest vein, and promises to throw the literary ventures of Barnum and Wykoff hopelessly into the shade. It is Stephen all over. The opening paragraph contains this glorious tribute to the memory of his distinguished parent:

His form is vailed from human view, and his soul is on it flight through wasteless ages, but his virtues will ever bloom in the affections of his kindred and native State.

DEATH OF JUDGE TAPPAN .- The Hon. Benjamin Tappan died at his residence in Steubenville, Ohio, on Sunday last. He was in his 85th year. He was conspicious as an able and active leader of the Democratic party in former years, and formerly United States Senator from Ohio. Judge Tappan was a man of decided ability, and great eccentricity of

HARPER FOR MAY .- Messrs. Crump and Welsh have received Harper for May. This number completes the last volume and contains a complete index to the whole volume. ing firm of New York was arrested a few days since on a charge of smuggling a large quantity of liquors, &c., into that port. The charge having been substantiated, the smuggled goods were forfeited, and a fine of $15,000 was paid by the offenders. The goods consisted of nine hundred and fifty-four cases of wine, fifty-one casks and five baskets wine; seven cases sardines, and one case of leather. The names were not made public, the collector positively refusing to furnish the information. Such arrests and onvictions are not at all uncommon, although the public seldom hear of them. This secrecy is accounted for by the New York Times, as follows:

By an arrangement of the smugglers with the custon house officers, their names are kept secret upon condition of a prompt payment of the penalty, and so the smuggler are "made honest men of." and nobody loses by the operation—for one-half only of the penalty paid for smugglir goes to the United States, the other half is divided between oes to the United States, the other half is divided between the collector, surveyor, naval officer, and informer. The rivacy, then, is quite essential to prevent the inquisive public from discovering how large the perquisites are non this one branch of profits. But, fortunately for his parties found guilty, a description of the goods sauggled, and the penalty paid is kept as matter of legal record in one of the United States offices, by consulting this file, we learn the names of the parties to be case we have spoken of.

THE CASE OF REV. MR. FARRINGTON .- The result of the ecclesiastical council in the case of the Rev. O. P. Farrington, of North Cohasset, Mass., was an acquittal. After hearing the evidence the council proceeded to express their opinion by ballot, with the following result:

Upon the charge of slander, there were five votes n the affirmative and four in the negative; on the charge of lying, three in the affirmative and four in the negative; on the charge of adultery, three in the affirmative and six in the negative; on the fourth charge (indecent exposure) there were two in the affirmative and seven in the negative. Upon a general ballot the vote stood six for acquittal and three for conviction. The majority having so voted, he was declared acquitted by the presiding Elder.

DAILY REVIEW OF THE MARKET, LOUISVILLE, April 22.

A continual rain put almost a total stop to out-door busiess. The money market is getting worse. Some of the banks threw out yesterday first class paper, short time. Their conduct is severely criticised in business circles, Many are loth to believe that they are as hard run as they would make it appear, but that it is merely done for their own aggrandisement. Eastern exchange is very firm at %

There was a decidedly better feeling in the provision market, private dispatches from New Orleans being favorable. Sales of 250 bbls mess pork were made at $22. The demand for clear sides is active and the stock light. We notice sales of about 50 casks, country cured, for shipment on orders at 124c, part packages extra and part packages included. Of the New York money market, the New York Com-nercial Advertiser of Saturday evening says:

mercial Advertiser of Saturday evening says:

The leading features of the money market this week are those of continued case. The banks are well supplied with means and dealing liberally with their customers, while the large dealers in the streets find it difficult to place the capital left with them in paper of the first class, which is still comparatively scarce, and taken readily when offered at eight to nine per cent. Second class is more abundant, and in less request at ten to twelve, and prime single names sell quickly at ten per cent. On call, the standard rate remains at seven per cent, but some loans are occasionally made under particular circumstances a litt lower.

There is little doubt that the banks here have been largely overdrawn by the Southern banks, and the present comparative case in money is probably owing to the commencement of the setting of the current this way, as the South is now liquidating the balances against them, thus placing their Northern correspondents in possession of means temporarily withdrawn, at a rate rather more rapid than is called for by the wants of trade, which are now less than usual at this season, on account of the prospective reduction of the tariff.

EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 22, 1857.

A FIGHT BETWEEN EDITORS .- A correspondent at Cynthiana, Harrison county, writes us that a personal rencounter took place in that place, on the 20th inst., between the two village editors, Major Morey of the "News" and Mr. F. L. McChesney of the "Age." There has been no good feeling existing between them for some time, in consequence of strictures published in the Age upon the Major. This the latter gentleman saw fit to resent, and on Monday, meeting Mr. McChesney in front of the Age office, he inflicted chastisement upon him with his cane.

The parties were arraigned for disturbing the peace, and Major Morey, pleading guilty, was fined $5 and the costs. It is hoped that this will be the end of the matter-that Mr. McChesney's bruises will soon heal, and the tenor of life in the beautiful village of Cynthiana flow on in as even, calm, and placid a current as the waters of South Licking which lave the boundaries of the pleasant town.

THE CAMEL EXPERIMENT. - The Washington Star says: "The camels in Texas have been heard from up to the 17th of March. They are doing well, and those first brought over are in use for the transportation of supplies between San Antonio and Camp Verdo. Three little ones were born in March and are thriving, and five or six more births are expected. From the reports of the condition of the animals, at present, and through the eleven months that the first importation have been on the continent we-may regard all doubts as to their acclimation dissipated, and that so much of the experiment is a fixed fact. The only remaining indeterminate point is the character of the stock that may be produced. For this, time will be required. The officers in charge are, however, sanguine that it will fully equal that of Asia Minor and Africa, and may, by proper attention, be more highly developed.

WEATHER AND CROPS IN LOUISIANA. - All of our Louisiana exchanges report extraordinary cold weather aud serious injury to the crops. At Alexandria there was ice a quarter of an inch thick on the 6th. In Catahoula parish the fruit and mast are all killed, and the cotton greatly damaged. On Bayou Bartholomew the planters were replanting their corn and cotton. In West Baton Rouge the cotton has been nearly all destroyed and the corn will require replanting; but the sugar cane can easily recuperate. In St. Mary's parish a full sugar crop is expected-larger than ever before ground up in that section. In Opelousas parish the sugar cane has not been injured by the cold weather. So there is a fair prospect for a good sugar crop.

A curious thing has taken place in Austria. It seems that the Hungarians, since their kingdon has been merged into Austria, and since a monopoly of tobacco has been introduced, have out of opposition ceased to cultivate the weed, preferring to plant sugar beets in stead. They will not give their tobacco for an arbitrarily determined price. This opposition has reached such an extent that Austria is obliged to go to foreign countries to purchase tobacco of an inferior description. Immense quantities of Markish or Brandenburg tobacco go to Austria and the demand is so great that it has risen from thalers to 18 thalers per hundred weight.

SCARCITY OF FOOD IN WESTERN IOWA .- A COTrespondent of the St. Louis Republican, writing from St. Joseph, Mo., under date of April 13th says that, while on a recent visit to Western Iowa he met long trains of wagons going, as the driver said, "into Egypt to purchase corn." The severe and protracted winter had pressed hard upon the newly arrived immigrants who had not had time to prepare for its rigors, while the almost entire consumption of flour, corn, and bacon had presented the alternative of famine, or sending into Missouri

PAPER Towns. - The Nebraska papers caution the public against the deceptious schemes of various persons in the East who are advertising the sale of lots in that Territory which have no existence, and are never likely to have.

We have been shown the prospectus of one of these sham enterprises emanating from the land of oden nutmegs, by which a number of citizens in this State have been deceived. If people desire to invest in Western lands they should do so after personal investigation.

FAMINE IN TEXAS .- J. R. Simms writes to the Austin Intelligencer from Round Rock, Williamson county, under date of March 30th, to the effect that "there are a number of families that have not had a morsel of bread for weeks, and don't know when they will get any, as they have spent the last red cent months ago. FOUR MEN MISSING. - We have been informed Four Men Missing. — We have been informed that on Saturday, the 28th ult., an organized body of men in Cass county, Nebraska, arrested pine men charged with jumping claims, who were tried before the committee to adjust and settle disputes about claims in that new county—that after hearing the testimony in the case the committee decided that they had nothing to do with the case, and the matter must be settled at the Land Office.

The prisoners were kept in custody after the decision, and at night five of the prisoners were sent across the Missouri river; and it is supposed that the other four were murdered and thrown into the river, as nothing has been heard from them since that night. We understand that several of the persons engraved in the arrest have been arrested: and from engaged in the arrest have been arrested; and, from a verbal report of the evidence taken on the examination, we think that the missing men have been murdered.

The names of the missing men are Johnson and his son and Kelley and a son-in-law of Kelley—we did not learn his name.—Council Bluffs Bugle, 7th.

The Pearl Excutement.—The alleged finding of real pearls in the shells of muscles near Patterson, N.J., is creating no little excitement. A friend assures us that one pearl as large as a small marble (not a piece of chalk), has been shown to Tiffany & Ellis, the well known Broadway jewelers, who estimated its value at $1,000, and offered to advance $700 on it. It lacks the pecular tint of the eastern pearl, otherwise its value would be almost incredible. The man who owns it has already sold small pearls to the amount of $200. Everybody is on the search, and whatever may be the result there is evsearch, and whatever may be the result there is evidently no lack of muscle on the diggings.

Curious Things.—A cotemporary well asks "what ext?" when noticing the fact that the Countess of Castiglione made a sensation at one of the Emperor Napoleon's recent levees, by appearing with her dress looped up at the side, so as to expose her sym-metrical limbs almost to the knees and displaying metrical limbs almost to the knees and displaying the neatly turned ankles, which were clasped with magnificent bracelets. The robe and corsage were of cloth of silver, the latter perfectly tight and con-siderably decollette, with extremely short sleeves and no ornament or trimming whatever but a large diamond heart, the former displaying an underskirt looped up at one side. On the head five diamond hearts were held together by an exercit transitionic looped up at one side. On the nead live diamond hearts were held together by an arrow transpiercing them, and a flowing veil completed the costume. It seems as though the free and easy days of the old Napoleonic dynasty were returning.

Panther Killed .- The Lewisburg Era says that a Panther Miled.—The Lewisburg Era says that a panther was killed on the 30th ult., in the Little Levels, Pocahonts county, Va., by Messrs. Wm. L. McNeil and Samuel Auldbridge. It measured seven feet from tip to tip. When found it was stationed McNeil and Samuel Auldbridge. It measured seven feet from tip to tip. When found it was stationed in the top of the weighing scales, near the comb of the house, with its feet extended and resting upon the cross pieces which hold the rafters secure—a very singular position, truly. The panther was shot by Mr. McNeil, but having a small load, it fell, but was not killed. Being in somewhat of a perilous situation, our friends were forced to meet the issue as best they could, and, during the struggles of the as best they could, and, during the struggles of the panther to regain its feet, its tail slipped through the crack of the paling, when it was eargerly seized by one of the party, and thus held until the other killed it with a fence rail. This is the second panther that has been killed in the same neighborhood this spring.

A man named Thos. P. York was brought to the Sixth Police Station on Thursday afternoon, where he stated that he had taken poison. His appearance then belied his statement, but in the course of an hour or two the fact became apparent, and a physician was called in. The man said he had taken arsenic because his sister was about to marry a man older than herself. He refused to take the antidote prepared by the physician, until he was assured that the proffered medicine was only intended to ease his pains so that he might die easy. He then took it, but the poison had taken too strong a hold, and, although he vomited much, he died in great suffering during the evening.

AN EXCITING SCENE. - In the course of the AN EXCITING SCENE. — In the course of the trial of the Dalton divorce case, yesterday morning, the counsel for Mrs. Dalton subjected Mr. Coburn to a most severe cross-examination, Mr. Durant giving as a reason that he did so for the sake of establishing the character of the witness's moral principle, with a view to showing what his testimony was worth. The question "did you steal $1,700?" was repeated again and again; the witness evidently was wrought up to a high state of excitement, at being the expose his own acts and the mowrought up to a high state of excitement, at being thus compelled to expose his own acts and the mo-tives which led to it before a crowded court; and at tives which led to it before a crowded court; and at last, having permission to make an explanation, he seemed to nerve himself for the admission; his face was flushed, his eyes sparkled, and with vehement tone and voice full of emotion, he brought his hand down upon the bar as he said: "I did take $1,700." During the merciless and business-like attempt of the talented counsel to obtain this answer, the feelings of those present had become intensely excited, and the sister of Mr. Coburn, who had sat in the witness seats, weeping, threw herself into the arms and the sister of Mr. Coburn, who had sat in the witness seats, weeping, threw herself into the arms of her fleighbor in an agony of grief, and it was found necessary to lead her from the room. Indictment for Abortion. — It is understood that the Grand Jury have now before them a charge of procuring an abortion, originating in facts brought to light in the testimony of the Dalton divorce case.

Mr. Cobnrn, in his testimony yesterday stated that Mrs. Dalton and Mrs. Gove (the mother of Mrs. Dalton) visited the office of Dr. Calkins, for the purposes referred to.

The Maysville Eagle is informed that the Rew John A. McClung will certainly accept the call that has been made upon him to become the pastor of the Presbyterian church in that city.

THE DALTON CASE.—Our readers doubtless renember that more than a year ago a Mr. Sumper was severely beaten by a Mr. Dalton for being too intimate with D.'s wife. Sumner died and Dalton was tried and suffered a short term of imprisonment. Dalton has now brought suit for divorce. In the trial another crime of the defendant, that of abortion, has been divulged. The Boston papers give full details of the trial. The Traveler, in an editorial on the case, after stating that Dalton had unsuccessfully attempted to have the matter arranged privately so as to avoid publicity, goes on to say: We believe that this case never should have been brought into court, or before the public, to monopo-lize the time of the one, and to create disgust in the lize the time of the one, and to create disgust in the mind of the other. It is said that justice demanded of Mr. Dalton that he should act as he has acted; but if all such cases were brought up for trial, as on abstract grounds they should be, would there not be a very fine state of things brought about? If a wronged hashand is imperatively bound to seek redress for his wrongs, why should not all injured wives seek similar redress? There are ten—aye twenty—women wronged in the way that Mr. Dalton has suffered—that is to say, through the infidelity of their spouses—where one man is so wronged. Yet they submit to this wrong, and continue to live with faithless husbands year after year, and for life, in order to avoid scandal.

Mr. Dalton could not be expected to live with his Word scandal.

Mr. Dalton could not be expected to live with his wife, and no one has thought that he should make any sacrifice of that kind to the feelings of either any sacrince or that kind to the reelings of entire his wife's family or the community; but if he had done so, would it have been anything more than is constantly done by amiable and virtuous woman, towards whom their husbands do not keep up even the semblance of fidelity? It is a wrong state of opinion that allows man to sin with impunity, and yet ould hold woman to the letter of the old law.

However, as we never expected that Mr. Dalton ould live again with his wife, we need not attempt to argue the point; but we see no reason for changing the opinion we have expressed, as to the proprety of his general conduct in pushing this case of the proprety of his general conduct in pushing this case. domestic warfare to the utmost extreme to which it can be carried. He has done no more than he had the right to do—no more, perhaps, than most men would do in a similar case; and the court would doubtless sustain him in all his legal rights; but it is with the moral propriety and policy of his course that we have dealt, and with which the public is

INGREDIENTS OF TOMATO KETCHUP.—The Bos ton Traveler gives the fellowing as the ingredients of the celebrated tomato ketchup manufactured in that city:

Old, otherwise worthless and musty dried apple are bought up, ground fine, boiled, flavored, and spiced, and the result is, No. 1 ketchup! A manufacturer's agent boasted of having twelve tons of such dried apples on hand, to be used this way.

[From the Pittsburg Gazette, 17th.] THE COAL TRADE.—We have procured from the record kept by the lock-masters on the Monongahels the exact amount of coal passing through since the breaking up of the ice about the middle of Febru-ry, 1857. The account stands thus:

For Pittsburgh Use. Down River. February......326,300 4,528,841 2,034,916 March......625,300 Total bushels......951,600 6,563,757

Thus there had come through the locks up to the first of April for this year, 7,515,357 bushels. As the returns are made up by the lock-keepers monthly, we have not the exact account of shipments for the present month. We were told by one of the clerks of the Monongahela Navigation Company, that the number of coalboats which have left for market in the last sixteen days will not vary much from 50 pairs, which, at a fair average, we are informed, will carry 25,000 bushels per pair. This would give an aggregate of 1,250,000 bushels.

The coal veins which occupy the hill opposite this city yield very abundantly. The quantities shipped therefrom this year we cannot state exactly. Cer-tainly one million of bushels is below rather than above the true amount. Adding the estimated and real amounts as above, we have shipped and brought to our own market for the year 1857, 9,265,357 bushels of coal. This is a very favorable state of the case as com-ared with what last year presented. Navigation, nen, only commenced about the 20th of March. At the end of the month 255,659 bushels of coal only had passed the locks for our own and the lower markets. Up to the present time this year, nearly as much of this great staple has passed through the locks as for the whole of last year. The account is as follows:

For 1856.

Taking into consideration the approximate amount above mentioned for this year it will be seen that already we are more than a million bushels ahead of the whole shipment through the locks of last year. In fact much of the coal which has already found its way to this market this spring was loaded last summer and fall, and waited until now before it could find an outlet. If we are favored with a good river through the remainder of the season, the amount of fuel that will be shipped from here will insure the people of the lower Ohio and Mississippi against the danger of suffering such as they endured during the searching days of last winter.

Money Diggers in Roxbury. — For the last seven or eight years, at different times, a party of three or more have been in the habit of visiting a field situated on the west side of Ruggles street, Roxbury, and digging for hidden treasures. The spot is near a creek, and long before the mill-dam was built small vessels passed up and down, and near this place it is supposed the famous Captain Kidd buried some of his money. Within the last four weeks, a party of three persons have visited the place and dug for the money, and on Wednesday night last, five persons proceeded to the field, and their proceedings were witnessed by a police officer and several others. The first one was engaged in digging a ring around a large tree, (where it is supposed the money lies) and would throw each shovelfull of dirt from the place very carefully, so that if the

The second was occupied in bailing water out of the hole; the third person had run a very long iron rod down into the place where the first person was digging, and he sat upon the bank, with his foot upon the top of the rod, and as they proceeded he would drive it still further into the ground. The upon the top of the rod, and as they proceeded he would drive it still further into the ground. The fourth also sat upon the bank and held in his hand a so-called "charm-rod," or, as the officer calls it, a "bob," it being a long piece of rattan, which had a heavy substance on the end of it that kept it in continual motion; this person kept up his operation of "bobbing" over the hole, until they stopped their work for the night. The fifth person appeared to be a waiter upon the rest, and did his work by signs, as they were not allowed to speak on the ground, is it would dispel the charm, and the money would immediately "move away."

it would dispel the charm, and the moley would immediately "move away."

These deluded persons continued digging from 11 o'clock Wednesday night until 3 o'clock Thursday morning. Their operations in digging have not thus far, probably, been very successful, as they agreed to handsomely remunerate the officers (if they got any money), if they would watch around the place and keep off all evil-disposed persons. The officers have as yet received none of the profits, and the chance is that they will not very soon. Some evenings since two women came to the place, in company with three men, apparently to do the talking. anness since two women came to the place, in company with three men, apparently to do the talking. The Democratic Press learns that a band of six hundred Sioux were committing depredations at the south bend of the Minnesota river. It is rumored that Manketo was attacked and destroyed by fire and many of the inhabitants murdered. The Indians are the same band that committed the murders at Spirit Lake. The inhabitants of the surrounding country are flocking to St. Peter for security. Several companies of troops from Fort Ridgely have gone in pursuit, and cavalry has been sent for to Fort Snelling. Great panic existed at various settlements, and the farmers were arming and preparing to join in the pursuit.

ayune of the 14th says in its money article, dated on the 13th:

The talk in the street to-day turned on the very unexpected change that took place in the weather yesterday morning. On Saturday we had an agreeable temperature with the thermometer at 75 deg., but a sudden norther reduced the mercury on Sunday to 42 deg., and this morning the glass was down to 40 deg. In the immediate vicinity there was a heavy white frost, which nipped vegetation, and there is no doubt whatever that every blade of cotton has been killed outright. Snow fell in large quantities some fifty miles above the city, a thing that has not happened at this period of the season since the 15th of April, 1848, when all the standing cotton was destroyed in one night, and the crop of that year fell short at least half a million of bales of the early expectations.

All the cotton thet was up a week since suffered from frost, and this morning's cold has finished off the balance, besides what has come out of the ground within the past week. A general resort must, therefore, be had to replanting, so that under favorable circumstances we cannot look for anything like a stand until the 16th proximo. Some people affect to treat this mishap slightly, but it cannot be got over so readily. Without these two cold spells, we should have had a first rate start to-day, whilst now the same ground has to be traveled over with all the risks pertaining to the culture. For our own part, we consider the visitation a very serious one, which may be overcome to be sure by a singularly propitious season, such as we have a right to expect, under the circumstances, once in every ten years. There is me mistake about it, that we have started very badly, and can only make up for it by good luck hereafter.

The Courier, under date of the 14th, has the following

The Courier, under date of the 14th, has the following on the same subjects:

There is considerable feeling in the general market regarding the results of the recent cold weather—its effect on sugar, cotton, and corn are something more than apparent. Possibly it is rather too early to come to the conclusion that the plants of both sugar and cotton which were above ground are not totally cut off. There is sufficient information at hand to enable us to decide that a great part of the ground planted with cotton will have to be replanted. This tends to strengthen the prices of cotton now in the market, and parties may attempt to hold for higher prices, provided they can realize money at reasonable rates of interces.

There has been more inquiry to-day and yesterday for temporary loans, and more short time paper has appeared on the market. At the same time there is a want of long date favorite paper of good signatures, at the standard rate of 6 % cent. Good names are more plenty and rather higher rates are asked, say as high as 10-31 % cent. Exchange closed yesterday under an advance of an eighth over the rates of last Saturday. The advance has been sustained to-day, with sales of clear A 1 sterling at 1083-201083%, and some bank drafts at 109. Dealers, however, are paying 1033-201083. Bills with shipping documents, are held at 1072-201083%. Francs have stiffened and held at $5.25-26.5.0. Sixty days' sight bankers' bills on New York are 1-31-31 discount; other good sixty days' from 13-201-31 discount.
